Latest lighting projects from around the world published by SELUX

Berlin, June 2011 – Magical areas of unspoiled nature in a reserved light setting, lighting of company headquarters inspired by corporate identity and visionary LED light solutions are just some of the topics to be found in the latest version of update by SELUX. This annual magazine presents the best highlights from architecture, design and lighting SELUX has produced in collaboration with renowned architectural offices and light planning bureaus around the world.

The magazine presents 16 individual project definitions together with an explanation of how these were converted into suitable lighting concepts by SELUX. Green light oases designed for the senses, a red exterior luminaire shaped like the familiar PUMA shoe box, light as a natural navigation aid – the unique and in some cases spectacular applications are designed to arouse the imagination of architects, lighting designers or others with an interest in lighting to find out about these new dimensions in lighting design.
